

Shine Through Me
Copyright Marnie Swedberg, 1991

When I step outside my home
I want the world to see.
Jesus shining out through me
In all that I believe.
No selfish thought or attitude
Should they detect in me.
But when I deal with others, Lord,
Help them in me You see.

Jesus, be the Lord of all I say and do,
When my world sees me,
Let Your love shine right through.

Boldness I require, to be what I should be.
Yielded to Your Spirit, listening
attentively,
No selfish thought or attitude
Should He detect in me.
So when I deal with others, Lord,
Your love in me they'll see.

Jesus, be the Lord of all I say and do,
When my world sees me,
Let Your love shine right through.

Interlude:
Please make my life a sacrifice,
I want to be like You.

Jesus, be the Lord of all I say and do,
When my world sees me,
Let Your love shine right through.

HISTORY. I used to have this thing I did when someone irritated me: I called it the "evil eye." This subconscious response, which triggered an obvious physical response, made me so mad! I prayed about it a lot and tried everything I knew to quit doing it.

After many years of frustration, God gave me this song, which I sang often. I am grateful to say that the "evil eye" is no longer part of my personality. My family says I still "look mad" when I'm concentrating (bah--it's just a never-ending list of things God has to work on, isn't it?!), but I believe God has purged me from yet one more of my bad habits, one which previously blocked His love from flowing through me during moments of personal disappointment.
